Dear Dr Guo,

Some time ago you kindly refereed for us the original version of the manuscript entitled "Distinct mutation accumulation rates among tissues determine the variation in cancer risk" by Prof Di et al. The manuscript has now been revised in response to the comments provided during review.

We hope you will be willing to look at the revised manuscript - to let us know whether your concerns have been addressed - in which case we would hope to receive your comments within approximately 7 days. If you would like to assist us but require a few extra days to review the manuscript please do not hesitate to contact us.

To accept or decline our request, please use the following link:
